The "Whater Lindse que," by Morveiller, is a picture as resemblely New Englandish, if we may coin the word,—as punkin pics or "Bankegiving. Morveiller made a concluder of violer regers and was colour. pick or Thankeytyeg. Allovener made a speciality of winter reduct, and was calmit-ted to be the best pointer of show in Ameri-ca. This is one of the best of his small pheres. It represents an old farm house by the road-side, with its inevitable 1.7s and out houses; grandom in the yard engaged in factors matter a groun old states of out houses; grandma is the yard engaged in feeding poultry; a group of skaters on a tracen stream hard by, with specialora backing on at the sport; in the distance, the village, which is in idea by the tracs on its outskinds. A grand did clear unifer whose while spituality branches the furnitioner is built, is tendened with wonderful fielity and spirit; and the appletrocach the other side of the real, seems to have been photographed from every banily humesteal in Massachus its away from the great from in Masserbas its away from the great from thoroughfares. The picture is a pleasant or to it has a warm, cheerful glow— such as every one delights in an "from mornings" in writer when the snow lies does not the sleigh bells are floging merrily on every raid.

does and the sleigh bells are ringing merrily on every road.

The "Brass of the Yo Sendie" is a characteristic bit of California scenery in Bierstudi's well known style. It represents a bright sunset on a lonely-late, whose softinels is distuibled only by a pair of water lowl that hover over and rest on the socks at the shore. Abrult, steep and rugged cliffs—over a part of which tumbles headlong, a graceful waterfall—from the Southern boundary of the lake; and a fringe of gigantic branchless fir trees skirt the Northern Store. It is a careful stally after nature gigantic transmiss or trees shift the North-orn shore. It is a careful study after nature and every touch is Berdshallich. The "Barefooted Hoy" is a true intist's rendering of Whittier's familiar lines :—

"Hilestings on the little man, Barefast boy with checks of tan; With thy tranch-up put thoms. And thy merry whistled taxes; With thy rod lip re Horstill Kissed by strawberries on the full; with the consider on the feet With the sanshine on thy face Through my torn brim's jointy grace; From my front I give thee joy-I was once a barefoot for-Prince than art—the grown up man Only is Republican. It represents a comely justic lad, clad in amespan dress, with his transers turned homespan arress, what his trousers turned ap, while his bonds in his protects and the brightest of "knowing" yet innovem smiles on his face and in this eyes. His five is heaf shaded by his bread brimmed hat; his feet are firmly [lanted on a grey rock; he looks so hopeful, so saif reliant, so entirely looks as hopeful, as sail reliant, so entirely at his case, that he seems the perfect incornation of Young America. The necessors of this picture are a distant handscape with a tree in the middle and foreground. They are well handled, but they serve only to support the figure, which is one of the best pieces that Mr. Johnson has ever produced. The "Fring of Gentian" after Newman, is one of those feasibily and wonderfully elaborate and truthful representations of vegetable life in which the pre-Raphaelin school arises of New York and chewhere, seen to delight. It is in water colors. It looks as If it had been drawn with the aid of a microscope the most Lifliquation details are so exactly reproduced. It is one of the most difficult subjects to clavera, and we shall take an interest in examining the result.

Among the fruit pieces in press, judging from the original, we prefer the "Cherries" and the "Streeberries," of Miss Granberry, which are certified a laterally rendered, with a brions fidelity to nature. In an entirely different style, but of the same character, are the commonly of plearer, by J. O. Brown of New York. This young artist excels in genre pie uses; he tenders children with a rare ability, especially when there is a single figure a test, but in an altitude expressive of mental action. This subjects—the "May Quem" and the genius. The "May Quem" is a little girl in the weads, brilliantly attited, self schemed with wild Bowers, buthou in sunlight, her eyes becomes with delight at the thought of surwild flowers, bathed in sundigit, her eyes bearing with delight at the thought of surprising her friends by her new and gay decorations. The "Little Regue" is the picture of a boy, four or fiveyears old, who is trying to hide himself from samebrdy coming—which somebody he is evidently intending to startle. He is stooping under a sunne buth, which he gently bends over blue. Tois gives the artist any opportunity for a brilliant piece of coloring. It is au-tun n, and the declining son shoots its rayy through the misty stansphere, brightening the games of the source leaves and warming in the gar interest of the source leaves and warming in the surroundings of the figure, which are rather cold and low in tone. The two pleures contrast flucly; the clear, bright, summer glow of spring—in the "May Queen"—bring narmoniously offset against the dreamy, inisty, autumnal vapors in the 'Little Rogue." "Easter morning," by Mrs. Hutt, he a messive martile cross, hung round about the fitchishis, priestes, yellow and other exquisitely third flowers. It is a combination cutifely may, peecher and lovely. In We have seldom seen an effect so original produced by a combination of such simple and familiar elements. There is an affia ence of quiet heavily in the wreath that is escentially harmonions with Easter and his sucred memories. It is altogether charming. If there is a single flaw in it we have falled to detect it. As far as the chromolias gone it hids fair to rivel the original but we reserve our judgment upon it until it is completed, we know only that if it is at all comparable, to the exquisite palating, it will sown he one of the most common originates of our bor loirs, restrices, Sunder each of the most common originates of our bor loirs, restrices.

The last painting on our list was handed in a twe we a taking notes of the new publications. It is a small reproduction of of the Crown of New England —a pointing which, both in England an America has secured for Mr. George L. Brown some of the highest encondums from artists and out critics, which American productions have ever obtained. Glowing, poetically truthful full of brilliancy and light and beauty, it inpresents the White Mountains when they are seen to the best advantage —when, as top or manney and right and beauty, it topresents the White Mountains when they are seen to the best advantage —when, as the portrait palaters say, they are in their chighest more say, they are said under the early morning sunboast of a late October day. The original on a large scale is on exhibition at the Art Gallery of Childs & Co., where it has been wished and admired by thousands of our wealthiest and test selecated citizens. If this beautiful creation, this lyric on canvas, can be reproduced in fac simile, it will mark an epoch in the art; for the vapors and mass that encircle the mountain sides, the sub-like gradations of light and shade, and the marvelous bleakings of colors and tints. the gradiations of refer to marvelous Decalings of colors and fints | He found in it a well, about eight inches in render it exceedingly difficulty either to disnester filled with very salt water. THE RIVAL PLORIDA CONSTITUTIONS,

THE STORY ABOUT GEN. GRANT.

Decupe of a Rebel Incendiary.

The Time's Washington dispatch says, the reconstruction committee has concluded the examination of the Florida constitution question, and will doubtless decide in Lever of the Reed constitution, as it is called, which is endorsed by Gen. Meade and adopted by the full convention after the records had been completed by the officer to return to Tallaharace. It will be remembered that the present republican ticket, now in the field in that State, was nominated with his constitution as a platform, and it is supposed that the action of the committee will result in harmonizing the conflicting inerests in the Union party and insure the
